

Ecclesiastes

Oppression, Rivalry, Companionship, Teachability

4:1-3

_____ is so widespread and devastating that it begs the question if it wouldn't have been better for some to have never been _____.

4:4-6

While _____ drives much human achievement, it's better to do _____ than to waste effort on something that ultimately accomplishes _____.

4:7-12

Even in a world that is meaningless having _____ is better than not having them.

4:13-16

Staying _____ and _____ is far better than pursuing the respect and admiration of others.

History, as well as the nightly news, is filled with countless stories of oppression. Mankind's inclination to push others down for own benefit seems to know no bounds and is ultimately destructive for both the oppressor and the oppressed. Envy is what tends to drive mankind's ingenuity and desire for success, but those successes are ultimately empty and unfulfilling. But if you're going to choose an empty life, it's better with a friend!
