

Ecclesiastes

Unsatisfied, Unborn, Unfortunate

6:1-12

Humans will never be _____ with this life.
We can try to _____ it, but it won't change reality.
It is what it is.

7:1-14

Proverbial Wisdom for Life

Having everything we could want in this world is no guarantee that we will be satisfied. In fact, the lack of satisfaction with who we are, what we have, and what life has sent our way is the default state of most people. Any momentary sense of satisfaction is typically short lived returning us right back to our default setting.

While seeking satisfaction is a fool's errand, seeking wisdom and living by it is not. It keeps our focus on the brevity of life, the value of moments of sober reflection and repentance, and the benefits of staying the course until things reach their proper end.
